

Dearest Elisabeth,

My sunshine...my beautiful sunshine. It has been 16 months since I last hugged and kissed you. My sweetie, mummy still remembers you and misses you dearly.

I often reminisce the lovely times we spent together exploring cafés and restaurants, always looking out for something new or unique to try. You loved white chocolate mocha from Starbucks, the luscious chocolate cake from Awfully Chocolate and could never say no to good quality sashimi. Do you remember the time when we ordered so much we just could not stomach everything? It was so hilarious. We were actually full from eating sashimi!

Come weekends, you enjoyed being involved with your parrots club in our neighbourhood. At times, you even baked bird-friendly cakes and treats to share with other birdies at the club gatherings. You always loved sharing your knowledge and welcomed all visitors. Showering your feathered friends had always been one of the highlights for you. They would cheerfully spread their wings and dance on the perches. Seeing them happy never failed to warm your heart.

An ardent animal lover and advocate, you had always wanted to become a vet. From young, you would rescue injured birds and bring them home to nurse. Just look at our home... you have transformed it into a mini petting zoo! The animals all loved you and flocked to you. Sometimes, you would pick up your pen to draw them, bringing out the beauty and character of each as you see them.

It is not often we come across someone so gifted in so many ways, yet always ready to lend a helping hand or bring some cheer with your quirky sense of humour. You have indeed been a blessing to all whose lives you have touched.

Loving you always, Mummy
